God bless you!

Pentecost Sunday! At Christmas we celebrate the birth of Jesus into our midst. Easter celebrates the resurrection of Jesus. And now this Pentecost Sunday we celebrate the birth of our Church, born in the Spirit promised by Jesus himself. Last Sunday, just before the Ascension, Jesus told those present: “And behold I am sending the promise of my Father upon you; stay in the city until you are clothed with power from on high.” And in chapter 20 of John’s gospel Jesus said that this same Spirit would teach, direct, remind them of all He has told them.

Now that was not an easy task then, for diversity within the community was great, nor is it any easier today. Some things are easy though – like last Sunday acknowledging our Blessed Mother with a May crowning (thank Legion of Mary members who helped make this special). And we acknowledged our Moms on Mothers’ Day. When mothers came up to receive a humble flower and simple blessing, I wish you could have seen the smiles I saw on their faces and in their eyes! Beautiful! And beyond the Mass, special things were said to and done for our Moms to show our gratitude and love. Thanks to all of you who helped supply the flowers and embraced our mothers with your heart thoughts!

There are times, though, when our differences or narrowly focused choices or attention make it much harder for us to embrace one another. We see that happening on the political scene these days; and in simpler ways it can happen between each of us. This past week I was responsible for several entrees to be offered at an appreciation dinner for our RCIA teachers who, by the way did such a splendid job in the expression of their faith! At the QFC butcher counter I was so preoccupied with asking questions about how to prepare the chicken that I did not acknowledge the greeting of a parishioner also at the counter (much more concerned about the impression I was to make than the presence of another person saying hello). Getting the information I needed, I just hurried off to secure the rest of the supplies I needed.

I think Pentecost is a feast of attention – to the Spirit, to Jesus and the Father for thinking enough of us to send the Spirit; to one another whom the Spirit calls us to engage and within our unique differences. These differences can be a source of blessings and add flavor, color, texture, depth, and meaning to what we are all about. Where has your attention been lately?

Many have focused on our Annual Catholic Appeal. We are at about 63% of our diocesan commitment. Thank you so much to all of you who have done this! And we so look forward to the rest of you giving your pledge to this special campaign. Doing so, we all acknowledge the real needs of those worthy of our attention and we can still use more volunteers to be lectors, Eucharistic Ministers, and sacristans for Saturday and Sunday evening Masses. Are you feeling called?

Before I left QFC I searched the isles trying to meet up with the man who was so gracious to acknowledge me. He had left. In his honor, I will try to do better. Honor someone this week by letting go of a narrow perspective and allowing yourself to be embraced by the attention of another as you graciously recognize them.

Father Mark

Saint Augustine of Hippo

Breathe in me, O Holy Spirit, that my thoughts may all be holy.
 Act in me, O Holy Spirit, that my work, too, may be holy.
 Draw my heart, O Holy Spirit, that I love but what is holy.
 Strengthen me, O Holy Spirit, to defend all that is holy.
 Guard me, then, O Holy Spirit, that I always may be holy.
 Amen.
