Dear Parishioners and Friends of Sacred Heart,

Today's gospel requires a "slow chewing for healthy digestion." At first we may wonder, why would a crooked steward is praised by the very employer he outmaneuvered? Truth is, Jesus does not commend the manager for being dishonest/fraud which "children of this world" tend to behave, but for being shrewd (i.e., practical wisdom) in assessing his life situation, assessing his resources, and quickly acting for a long-term future. Using this practical wisdom as a learning tool, Jesus, in line with prophet Amos in the first reading, points out for us "children of the light" two guiding truths for life here and beyond: First, it's impossible to simultaneously serve God and be slave to mammon (i.e., self-centered acquiring, using or possessing of time, energy, talents, education, resources). Second, all that we are and all that we have belong to God. We don't own them. They are God's entrusted gifts to each of us, as proper means to care for ourselves as well as for the less fortunate. How we use these gifts today ("trustworthy in small matters") affect our ability to receive God's gift of eternal salvation ("trustworthy in great ones").

Great news: There are various opportunities to serve God. Our annual parish "Ministry Fair" is after each Mass this weekend. Pray and renew/commit in sharing your time and talents through various ministries at Sacred Heart, i.e., Lector, Extraordinary Minister of the Eucharist, Food Bank volunteer, musician. Any "side effects" for serving God and each other? We grow spiritually. We'd be much happier. Besides, each person/gift is valued and important to the overall health of our parish. And thank you for saying "yes."

Do you know (more details in this bulletin) that: Our RCIA program is a best-kept secret of our Catholic faith, especially for spiritual seekers? Our Food Bank hosts its annual Kells Event – a fun gathering for a noble cause – this Tuesday? Our former Archdiocesan newspaper, called Northwest Catholic Progress, can be accessed on-line (nwcatholic.org) and is free. Great stuff for on-going faith nourishment!

With love in Christ the Redeemer,

Fr. Binh Ta, C.Ss.R.
